Availability and marketing of food and beverages to children through sports settings: a systematic review

The systematic review identified and appraised the existing research on food environments in sports settings, including research into types of food and beverages available, the extent and impact of food and beverage sponsorship and marketing and views about food environments among stakeholders.

The review found that further research with comprehensive studies of food environment in sports setting is needed to document availability, sponsorship and marketing of food and beverages at national, regional and club levels. It also recommends estimating how sports settings may influence children’s’ diets.
